

IN THE
FRONT ROW

HEADLINERS TONIGHT.

Hippodrome. Dramatic Stock
The Stage. The Screen.
Nelson. The Screen.
Princess. High Speed
Dixie. The Sage Brusher

TOM CASEY'S company starts the second week at the Hipp today with one of the real pretty melodramas, "Tess of the Storm Country." The story is an old one, always interesting, and it rightly presented in excellent entertainment. It ought to make an ideal story for the "little leading lady" to star in, while the balance of the cast are able to render satisfactory support.

Peggy Hyland in "Faith." Nelson is offering Peggy Hyland in a clever comedy drama today, the title being "Faith." The story is a William Fox production, and has suspense, suspense and comedy delightfully mixed throughout. Jester comedy is an additional offering of a light nature.

Excellent Story Screened at Dixie. The Benjamin B. Hampton adaptation of Emerson Hough's novel, "The Sagebrusher," showing at the Dixie and distributed by W. W. Hodgkinson, is a good general purpose film. It is a picture that can be shown by the exhibitor with the assurance that his patrons will be pleased by the story of a rough diamond with a big clean heart. It contains an unusual situation replete with human interest and dramatic intensity, and has also enough of a spectacular or melodramatic element to please the majority. Roy Stewart plays the main role of Dr. Barnes, and Noah Beery does a convincing piece of work in portraying the homely character of Sam Gage. The pathetic figure of the picture and also the most beautiful is Mary Warren, the blind wife of Sam Gage, played by Marguerite De La Motte. The cast is a well-balanced one.

Moral Tone Fine At Princess. The situation which forms the groundwork of "Clinton H. Stagg's" story of the gasoline track, "High Speed," the Princess attraction, is one rarely exceeded in its kind. The story carries itself without elaboration, as proved in the Hallmark adaptation, which has the advantage of an excellent cast with Edward Earle and Gladys Hulette in the stellar roles. In spite of the fact that the action moves slowly at times, and that points of vantage in the story are often reduced to mere incidents, the picture holds the interest of the spectator from first to last. It is a production of good moral tone, strong suspense and adventurous suggestion. The character of Billy Brice is portrayed in fine style by Edward Earle. The role is different from any in which he has been seen before and his conception of character of the road champion, who, in payment of a debt, allows his honor to be besmirched rather than bring disgrace on one who has befriended him, is well-poised, effective and unobtrusive. Gladys Hulette also acquires herself well.

Confederate Veteran
In Richwood Home

Charles Wagoner, of the East side, a Confederate veteran of the Civil war, is now comfortably at the soldiers home at Richwood, Va., through the efforts of the Robert E. Lee chapter of the United Daughters of the Confederacy. Mr. Wagoner, who is far advanced in years, was totally unable to care for himself and during a period of time when he was in a local hospital the chapter looked after his wants. The aged soldier was accompanied to Richmond by R. E. Morgan, of this city.

E. Jones

Gloves

A FRENCHMAN is quoted as having said that any woman is beautiful who has wit and pretty hands. But even a naturally beautiful hand is not more lovely than a well-gloved hand.

Especially popular are the new gauntlet and long white styles for wear with the new short sleeves, frocks and blouses. All styles.

$3.50 to $8.50

MEMORIAL SERVICE
FOR REV. L. K. PROBST

Congregation of Grace Lutheran Church Adopt Suitable Resolutions

Memorial services out or respect for the late Rev. Luther K. Probst, a former pastor, were held yesterday morning by Grace Lutheran congregation in the church.

Rev. Roy J. Meyer, pastor, spoke of Rev. Probst as follows: "While Rev. Dr. L. K. Probst served Grace Lutheran congregation, Fairmont, he was greatly loved and esteemed not only by his own congregation but by the general public as well. A man of the Catholic church, this city, said to me yesterday, 'We were sorry when we learned of Dr. Probst's resignation as pastor of Grace church in 1915.' Shortly after coming here as pastor of the church he was instrumental in the organization of the Synod of West Virginia and he served as the first president of the Synod of West Virginia. While here he affiliated actively with the Ministerial Association and other charitable organizations. He was a man of splendid intellect and was regarded as among the most learned ministers that were ever resident here. By the death of Rev. L. K. Probst, D. D., the Lutheran church suffers a great loss. In his life and work he was one of God's noble men, and very efficient co-laborer. As a pastor he was most sympathetic in all his Christ-like ministrations. As a man of culture and fine attainments, he was prepared to serve the church most efficiently during the many years of his ministry."

"The Lord gave and the Lord hath taken away. Blessed be the name of the Lord."

Rev. Meyer then read the following account of Rev. Probst, which appeared in The Lutheran, the official organ of the United Lutheran church of North America, in last week's issue: "Luther Kolb Probst, the son of Rev. John Frederick Probst and Anne Rebecca Kolb Probst, was born at Hummelstown, October 15, 1856. He graduated from Pennsylvania College, at Gettysburg, Pa., in 1876, and from the Theological Seminary in 1880. He took charge of St. Andrew's congregation at Charleston, S. C. Eight years later he was called to assume the duties of General Secretary of the Board of Home Missions of the United Synod of the South. Faithfully did he fill this position for sixteen years. During this period he lived at Knoxville, Tenn., where he organized and developed a mission congregation in connection with his larger work. Under his wise guidance this congregation soon built a church, and became self-supporting at the end of three years. He then located at Atlanta, Ga., where he organized a new congregation and served it in connection with his larger responsibilities. When he resigned his position as General Secretary in 1904, he was called by the Board of Home Missions of what was then the General Synod, and was placed in charge of Immanuel Mission, Columbus, Ohio. Five years later he found his health failing and resigned this pastorate to take a needed rest. A year later the Board of Home Missions placed him in charge of its two mission congregations at Fairmont and Clarkeburg, W. Va. The work in both fields soon revived, and the Clarkeburg Mission was given a pastor of its own, thus setting Dr. Probst free to devote all his time to the Fairmont congregation. Here he soon had a fine church building ready for dedication, and a growing, hopeful congregation to encourage him in all his well-laid plans. But again his health compelled an unexpected change in those plans. He moved to Baltimore, leaving Fairmont in December, 1915. Through rest he again hoped to recover and soon get back into the work of the pastorate. But such was not God's plan for His weary, worn harvester.

On April 28, 1881, Rev. Probst came from Charleston, S. C., to Baltimore, to claim as his bride Miss Emily Wood. Few young pastors have been more fortunate in their choice of helpmate. Her meekness, ability, tactful wisdom and patient forbearance will readily be recalled by not a few of the leaders in our Woman's Missionary circles. Dr. Probst is survived by this helpful companion of his days of strength and usefulness, and by one son, John Frederick Probst, manager of the Automatic Electric Company of Philadelphia; and three daughters, Miss Carrie Mae, of the Goucher College of Baltimore; Miss Emily Wood Probst, both also of Baltimore.

J. F. Shaffer gave a sketch of the early history of the church and the trials and troubles encountered. Rev. Probst was an optimist and he told how he led the congregation through many hours of trial. The building of the church and the formation of the synod were big pieces of work which Rev. Probst accomplished while in Fairmont.

There were appropriate hymns sung and the choir rendered a selection. The congregation unanimously passed this resolution, which will be sent to the bereaved family.

"Intense Pain
Relieved by Internal Baths"

Mrs. A. T. Smith, of 2906 Mitchell St., Tampa, Fla., writes the Tyrell Hygienic Institute:

"The 'J. B. L. Cascade' has been a blessing to me. Before I got it neither medicine nor douches would relieve the constipation and the pain was terrible. But the Cascade thoroughly cleanses and relieves me from all pain."

The 'J. B. L. Cascade' cleanses the lower intestine its entire length and keeps it always free of poisonous waste.

Thousands testify that Constipation, Indigestion, Stomach Troubles, Biliousness, Headaches and all the many serious troubles which they cause are absolutely relieved and prevented by this Nature Treatment. Fairmont Pharmacy in Fairmont will be glad to show you the 'J. B. L. Cascade,' explain its simple operation and will give you, free on request an interesting little book by Dr. Chas. A. Tyrell of New York, a noted specialist on internal bathing for 25 years in that city. Clip this out as a reminder to ask for the booklet at your first opportunity.

NELSON
To-Day
Peggy Hyland

in

"FAITH"

Winsome little Peggy plays in it. Need we say more?

Also
A Jester Comedy
"In the Wild West."

It will never grow old
It is the greatest of all human stories
William Scott's stimulating spectacle
The HONOR SYSTEM with all the thrills of life on the frontier
PART OF THE HONOR SYSTEM

GRAND
3 Days Com. Thurs.
March 4

WHEREAS: It has pleased Almighty God in His infinite wisdom to remove from the scene of His earthly labors Rev. L. K. Probst, D. D., having been called to his heavenly reward on February 1st, in this year of our Lord One Thousand Nine Hundred and Twenty, and

WHEREAS: Having been pastor of Grace Evangelical Lutheran congregation of Fairmont, W. Va., for the period beginning February 1st, 1909 and ending October 18th, 1915, at which latter date he was obliged to give up active ministerial duties on account of continued ill-health, and

WHEREAS: By virtue of his association with the said congregation for the period mentioned he was not only eminently successful in building up the congregation, erecting the present church edifice and serving the community at large as an officer and active member of the local Associated Churches, but was also instrumental in the establishment and maintenance of St. Mark's Lutheran church, a Clarkeburg, W. Va., serving as part time pastor, and

WHEREAS: He was the leading spirit in the organization of the Evangelical Lutheran Synod of West Virginia, of which he was first President, and that, in this capacity and as editor of the Young Lutheran he rendered untiring and invaluable service in the interests and well being of the various Lutheran churches throughout the State.

"NOW THEREFORE, BE IT RESOLVED: That we extend to his bereaved family our deepest sympathy

Of Utmost Importance

Pure, emulsified cod-liver oil is not medicine as many are prone to think of medicine.

SCOTT'S EMULSION

is a form of growth-nourishment that is of utmost importance to many children. That most children relish and thrive on Scott's is a "triumph" accepted the world over. Give Scott's to the children and watch them grow strong!

Scott & Bowne, Bloomfield, N. J.

POLITICAL ADVERTISEMENT POLITICAL ADVERTISEMENT

(Editorial New York Tribune, Feb. 26, 1920.)

WHY LEONARD WOOD?

By his appearance in South Dakota, General Leonard Wood formally consents to the use of his name as a presidential candidate. The question may thus be asked, "Why Wood?" What reasons justify his candidacy? What claims has he on the consideration of the American people?

In the way of giving honoring testimony where it seems richly due, these things may be said: He has earned a place as a great national figure; he has shown the rare quality called vision; he has been a doer throughout a crowded life, and his reputation rests not on words. He has a character whose soundness and beauty have endured many searching tests.

General Wood belongs to no state or section. It happens he was born amid the Cape Cod folks of Massachusetts, but is at home anywhere in America—in New Mexico as much as in New York, in South Carolina as much as in Illinois. He is big enough to be seen across the continent, and is not called on to ask for support as a favorite son.

General Wood has vision—that instinctive quality by which some men sense the future and its problems. In 1902 he attended the maneuvers of the German army. The Kaiser thought his quiet, unassuming visitor was dull—was not aware that his keen mind had clearly pierced the Kaiser's secret. A danger threatened America and the World, and General Wood saw it. He refused the Order of the Black Eagle, but subsequently accepted a decoration from France. Other men were blind. Let us rejoice he was not.

The vision guided him. Two unforgettable things he contributed to winning the war. He laid the foundations of the public opinion that brought conscription promptly, and he was the father of the Plattsburgh idea. He endured the reproach of being a militarist to secure the one, and pushed the other despite the frantic threats of the Administration. Except for conscription and the Plattsburg preparation of officers the 2,000,000 Americans would scarcely have arrived in time.

Princeton University paid a merited tribute when it conferred a degree and said: "In our defenseless state he has sounded the reveille to awaken a slumbering nation from its dream of security, bidding us rise and take our place like men to save our freedom and help to save the freedom of the world."

As a doer General Wood revealed himself when he was administrator of Cuba, and later of the Philippines. His reputation is international. His achievements are compared to those of Cromer and Milner. Tact, foresight, patience, business judgment, imagination and sympathy—these elements were mixed in him and won him the confidence of proud but backward peoples.

Touching the character of the man, only one incident need be mentioned. In July, 1918, his division, the 89th, reached the port of debarkation. The General's baggage was about when an order came from Washington relieving him of command. There was almost a mutiny. He called his officers together and said to them: "I am going back to Camp Funston tomorrow, where I shall give the best that is in me to the training of the new troops. Do not concern yourselves with my case, but get your mind on the war. If you would please me, play your part cheerfully and well—that means when in action never fail to take your objective, and never be late on your objective."

It's the way, as Kipling has told us, a man takes a "facer" that proves his stuff. Should General Wood reach the White House we may be sure there will be a man there with ruggedness of character equaling that of the most illustrious of his predecessors.

and solicitude for them in their great sorrow, knowing that he who doeth all things well will sustain and comfort them through this period of grief and sadness, and will ever preserve and keep them unto the end.

"RESOLVED: That we bow in humble submission to the will of our Heavenly Father, who has seen fit to take unto Himself our beloved friend and former pastor; to call to celestial vocations that life so deeply consecrated to the service of his Lord and Master; so unselfishly dedicated to the best interests of mankind."

"RESOLVED: That as a congregation we will seek to perpetuate his memory by the fostering and furtherance of those ideals and aims so steadfastly adhered to in his work for Christ and the Church while in our midst; that we may in solemn contemplation and appreciation of the

A GROCER TELLS
WHAT OVERCAME
EFFECTS OF FLU

Nerv-Worth Quickly Brought J. O. Wilkinson Back to Strength and Health.

Mr. Wilkinson, a well known grocer of Richmond, Ind., made the following statement:

"I was in bed 16 days with influenza and it left me in very bad shape. I was weak and nervous. Could not sleep more than an hour or two at a time. Had very little appetite and was hardly able to get around the house."

"I read the statements in the paper and Nerv-Worth seemed to be helping so many to get well that I thought I would give it a trial. Used two bottles of Nerv-Worth and am AS WELL AS EVER NOW. Good appetite, sleep fine and get up in the morning rested."

J. O. WILKINSON.

Your dollar back at Crane's drug store, Fairmont, if Nerv-Worth does not help you.

Neighboring agents: H. J. Mathews & Co., Manassas; F. J. Yost, Fairview; Windsor Drug Co., and the Honaker Pharmacy, Monroeville; Johnson's Pharmacy, Shilstone; Grant Graham, Belington; W. O. Davis, Philippi.

work accomplished by him, glorify anew as individuals, our hearts and lives in loyal service to the King he loved so well and served so faithfully."

"RESOLVED: That a copy of these resolutions be forwarded to the bereaved family, such articles of sympathy and respect being but indicative of the greater love which exists within the hearts of friends and former associates in this congregation and community, and that the said resolutions be inscribed on the official records of this church and parish.

Framed and dated this 4th day of February, 1920.

C. H. BLOOM, C. A. FILSON,
J. F. SHAFFERMAN, W. F. GANN, Committee.

Dad speaks one word for me and two for himself when he tells Mother to order more

Post (NEW) Toasties
Superior Corn Flakes
Made of Indian Corn, Sugar and Salt
Postum Cereal Company,
Battle Creek, Michigan, U. S. A.

He likes them same as I do — Bobby

Made by Postum Cereal Co., Battle Creek, Mich.

WRIGLEYS

Here's to teeth, appetite, digestion!

The flavor lasts—and the electrically-sealed package brings to you with all its goodness perfectly preserved.

WRIGLEYS

Sealed Tight—Kept Right!

WRIGLEYS' JUICY FRUIT
WRIGLEYS' DOUBLEMINT
WRIGLEYS' SPEARMINT

HIPPODROME--THIS WEEK

"THAT CLASSY STOCK COMPANY"

TOM CASEY'S POPULAR PLAYERS

With MILDRED JEROME, "The Littlest Leading Lady"

VAUDEVILLE BETWEEN ACTS CARLOAD OF SCENERY

MONDAY
TUESDAY
WEDNESDAY
THURSDAY
FRIDAY
SATURDAY

"TESS of the STORM COUNTRY"

"THE GIRL HE COULDN'T BUY"

Matinee Daily at 2:45, 30c and 50c
Night at 8:05 30c-40c and 55c